The Team AngelWolf Impact Talk is a popular, powerful, impactful, motivational talk. It shares the story of Rio (a person with disabilities) and how Team AngelWolf came to be, overcoming attitudinal, social and physical barriers; showing the importance of family, teamwork, community, health and inclusion, and, how Team AngelWolf opened doors to inclusion in sports and community events.

The story is shared by Nick Watson (Rio's father and founder of Team AngelWolf); in his fun, emotional, upbeat talk, Nick clearly shows, that from his own personal and work experience, as a father and entrepreneur, that life is never easy, life can cause stress, life can throw complications, life is not always as you plan it, but, you can always find inspiration and motivation in the most toughest of situations; and these skills can be incorporated into your daily personal, school and work life, to make your situation more positive, productive and help others in the process. His story ignites understanding, motivation and determination to take part in #InclusiveImpactivity.

The talk can also be integrated with Tia Watson (a.k.a Little Wolf) joining the stage co-presenting with her father, Nick. Tia shares another side of the Team AngelWolf story, HER story - the perspective of an empowered young women, who as an older teen has an important story to share; her journey with inclusion, being a young caregiver, sister to Rio, a triathlete (an inclusive athlete and solo athlete), her accomplishments, her Guinness World Record achievement with Rio and her future goals. Her story beautifully shows a shining example of women empowerment, youth leadership, power of family and teamwork, embracing diversity; along with her message about inclusion #BeAnIncluder

As a co-presenting duo, the talk is deeply powerfully, covering many angles and layers that everyone will find some area to connect with and gain insight and motivation from.

The talk duration is flexible, spanning 30 to 60 minutes inclusive of the Q&A session. Both the timing and key messages can be tailored to align seamlessly with the purpose of the event theme and cater to the specific needs of the audience.
